

33. The method of claim 32, wherein the compound has a structure:

34. A method of treating obesity in a subject in need thereof, the method comprising administering an effective amount of a compound for inhibiting PKCδI activity in the subject, wherein the compound has a structure selected from:

